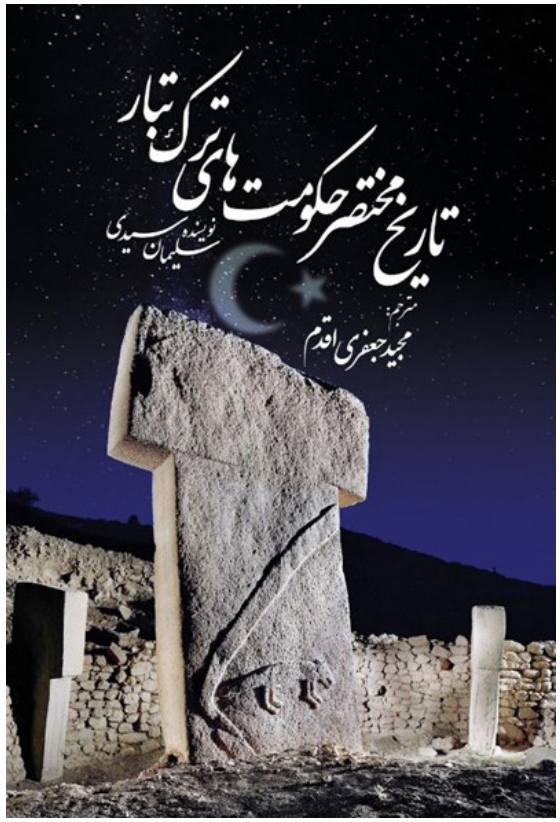
An Outline of 2000 Years of Turkish History



About the Book

The current extent of migration from Turkic-speaking Asia Minor to Central European countries, the United States and Australia, has formed significant communities in these countries. They are historically and linguistically related to the Gokterak, a tribal people who founded an empire in the sixth century in the Mongols and the northern borders of China to the Black Sea.

With a few exceptions, such as the European part of Turkey and the Volga region, Turks live in Asia. The most important historical connection between them, apart from history and language, is that they are all Muslims except for Yaqutistan and Chuvash in Siberia. Turkic peoples can be divided into two main groups, Western and Eastern. The western group includes Turks from southwestern Europe and southwestern Asia living in Turkey and the northwestern part of Iran. The Oriental group includes Turkic peoples of Central Asia, Kazakhstan, and the Uyghur Autonomous Region in Xinjiang, China. Familiarity with the origins and creation of Turkic governments, as influential tribes in the history of mankind, has always been the focus and trust of historians.

In the present book, an attempt has been made to briefly introduce the ethnic groups and governments of Turkic descent throughout history, using authentic historical sources. This book explains the ten chapters of Turkic peoples and governments in different parts of the world throughout history, from its inception to the present. Since a large number many modern-day Turks live in our beloved country of Iran, it seems to be familiar with their historical background to understand the history of this land.

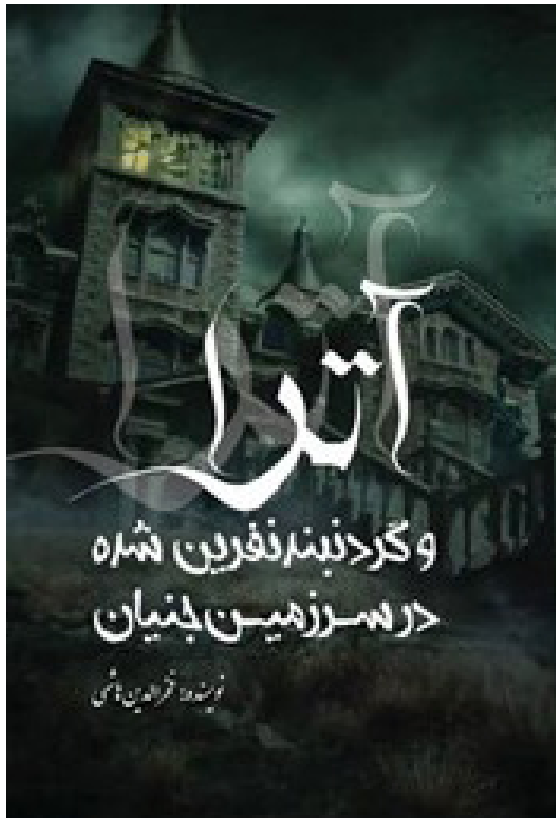
Atra and the Cursed Necklace in the Land of the Genies



About the Book

The novel Atra and the Cursed Necklace in the Land of the Genies are taken from the author's imagination and living environment in a historical stand that belongs to several historical periods and the capital of ancient Iran and is free from any connection with supernatural factors or other creatures.

The creatures that the Creator of the universe mentions in the heavenly books such as the Qur'an and the Torah as goblins and are hidden from human view by the will of God are different characters in this story; Creatures that, according to the Scriptures, were created from fire and lived for more than three thousand years, in contrast to the short life of man created from dust; And finally, moments after death, they go up into the sky like smoke and disappear.

In the Qur'an, a complete surah is dedicated to the jinn, in which God says, "We created human beings and jinn to be slaves, and on the Day of Resurrection, we will send the wicked to Hell together".

In the Torah, the Jewish scripture also mentions Solomon as the prophet who had the most contact with goblins and was ruled by jinn, animals, and wind. During his reign, a group of these creatures was appointed to serve him by the command of God; So that ordinary people could easily see them; So much, so that one of them was chosen as Solomon's minister to be in charge of the goblins in his apparatus.

He lit up his first cigarette right at the time the pain of love was running to his bones. Moreover, for fear of losing, being forgotten, and being cheated, he counted stars all his nights. "I don't understand whyhhavebbeeng being this feeling for you . . ."
Sophia is the name of one of the three main characters in the story. The story is written in the romantic-social genre, narrated through two (dramatic and fictional) timelines. The Baran character in the story's dramatic timeline is the same young Sophia of the novel's fictional timeline.
